Puppy Challenges Coming Out of the Pandemic

Did you know that in the past year, 23 million American households acquired dogs, according to the ASPCA. Our training department is seeing swarms of new clients coming out of isolation with their dogs. We are hearing they have puppy challenges that started small and are growing worse due to their dog experiencing the “real world” as they grow into the teenage years.

Some of the challenges we hear are:

- Excessive jumping and barking
- Overexcitement in new routines
- Pulling and tugging on the leashes

Does this describe your current situation? If so, Best Friends Fur Ever can help you turn your best friend into both a good household member and community member. We believe that the first step in instilling polite behavior is positive reinforcement. Rewarding good behavior with verbal praise, belly rubs, and happy pats plus training treats, teaches a dog what is expected after a positive interaction. Our dogs learn to trust our trainers and rely on them to demonstrate what's next because they are so eager to learn. We customize our lesson plans to our owners' ultimate goals.

With the purchase of our training packages, you will be well on the way to enjoying your pup in new and exciting ways. Your pup will receive the skills and experiences that will make outings even more enjoyable than they are now. You will receive weekly exit lessons to ensure that you and your pup are "speaking the same language". Our trainers will transfer the visual and verbal commands to you as the parent. You will also have access to our proprietary training portal to keep you on the right track with your homework assignments.

Training your dog is an investment of a lifetime – your lifetime with your best friend.
